I know you don't know me
Or care what I do
I guess that's why I wrote this
I just can't find the courage
To say it to you

I know you don't see me
Except for holidays
My schedule gets crazy
I just can't see the err of my selfish ways

I'm sure you could've used a friend
You were too young to deal with divorce
Love had just taken its course
Yeah, I know I never taught you anything at all
But I'll start by saying it's not your fault

You've grown up so fast
I guess you didn't have a choice
See the worst part of it
Is when I call you just never recognize my voice

I'm sure you could've used a friend
You were too young to deal with divorce
You see, love had just taken its course
Yeah, I know I never taught you anything at all
But I'll start by saying it's not your fault

Someday you'll meet a girl
And she'll become your oxygen
Or maybe give meaning to your world
And if she should leave from out underneath
Just know that you always can crumble on me

You were too young to deal with divorce
Love had just taken its course
Yeah, you were too young to deal with divorce
Love had just taken its course
I know I never taught you anything at all
But I'll start by saying it's not your fault
