

Spleen, The "Crash"

I need a time
I need to crash
It will take spine to unwind the past, to forget the clash Take my hand, please look at my face, I'm confident we're not a disgrace Don't look back, don't try to lie, 'round me, surround me visions cry

It's a lonely old man walking on this road thinking about what is lost over the trust in the dark of a moonless sky It's a wingless angel's fly, the children's tears you cannot dry
The peace you cannot defy, in this world where we'll die

Don't let your stability crack Be confident the wind will track the times we don't want to attract It's a blank page we have to write under the forgotten moonlight
Do not look back, don't try to lie, 'round me, surround
me visions cry

what is lost over the trust in the dark of a moonless sky
It's a wingless angel's fly, the children's tears you
cannot dry
The peace you cannot defy in this world where we'll die

I cannot see this destiny
