"Plug It In"

About a year ago I met this wonderful girl
We started drinking in a bar
Then we went home to her
And on our way we connected like hell
Her music taste were the same as mine
It might not seem like a problem I know
But let me tell you now
Cos'

We were making love to the beat of the
Mighty Mighty Bosstones
She was making so much noise
I had to plug in the head phones
It's not disrespect but I rather listen to them than you
We were making love
When the music made my baby blue

We stumbled through the door and began the act
I started fumbling with her bra
And she was on my sack
She said "I've got this really good song and I
I want to play it for you"
I don't know what I did wrong
But I guess I spoiled her mood

We were making love to the beat of the
Mighty Mighty Bosstones
She was making so much noise
I had to plug in the head phones
It's not disrespect but I rather listen to them than you
We were making love when the music made my baby
blue

Later that night she said her say
And I was thrown out
Without my clothes right away
Pissed off like a bumble bee
She cursed my soul and my thing
Left me naked on the street screaming
"I want to plug it in"

We were making love to the beat of the
Mighty Mighty Bosstones
She was making so much noise
I had to plug in the head phones
It's not disrespect but I rather listen to them than you
We were making love when the music made my baby

I had to plug in the head phones
It's not disrespect but I rather listen to them than you
We were making love when the music made my baby
