

Used, The "Meant To Die"

Past midnight, breathing in the dark
The same strange friend comes to visit
Never intend to open the door

You take it to places that no ones ever been
You let it, you let it
Your insides caving in
You pushed and pushed still wanting more

This time I've gone all the way without you
Theres nothing more I can say

So maybe I took a little too much
Maybe life didn't want this part of me
If it helps to know, I never meant to go
Sure I lost my mind
But I never really meant to die

Past heartbeats fading in the night
Only expected darkness
Surprise to wake and follow the light

The second you let it become a part of you
You'll never forget it, no matter what you do
You lost it all, still wanting some more

This time I've gone all the way without you
There's nothing more I can say

So maybe I took a little too much
Maybe life didn't want this part of me
If it helps to know, I never meant to go
I'm sorry that I lost my mind

So maybe I took a little too much
Maybe you've sucked the life right out of me
I should've let you know, I never meant to go
Sure I lost my mind
But I never really meant to die

[Instrumental Break]

So maybe I took a little too much
Maybe life didn't want this part of me
If it helps to know, I never meant to go
I'm sorry that I lost my mind

So maybe I took a little too much
Maybe you've sucked the life right out of me
I should've let you know, I never meant to go
Sure I lost my mind
But I never really meant to die
