I think of the worm that I've become Left blind from the brightness of your halo
No one shines like you do
My filthy mouth and broken words
This small disease that leaves me crawling
Crawling to you

Crawl underground for comfort
Stay close to the dark to keep from falling
From falling

Sold my life to bring the rain
Maybe to wash me clean
Sold my soul to stop the pain
Hoping you'd set me free
All your fears, all your shame
You know that you can lay it all on me
You can lay it all on me

I took every chance to lash my tongue
You wore the scabs just like an angel
There's something about you
Horrible things that I have done
Seems this disease is slowly spreading
Start running, what would you do?

I crawl underground for comfort
Stay out of my mind to keep from dying
From dying

Sold my life to bring the rain
Maybe to wash me clean
Sold my soul to stop the pain
Hoping you'd set me free
All your fears, all your shame
You know that you can lay it all on me
You know that you can lay it all on me

Could you forget then what I said?
And how I died inside my head?
We're starting over, not pretending that the past is dead

All the pain you feel you own, and the times I should've known
Don't keep it inside, let it out and lay it all on me

Sold my life to bring the rain
Maybe to wash me clean
Sold my soul to stop the pain
Hoping you'd set me free
All your fears, all your shame
You know that you can lay it all on me
You can lay it all on me
