How are you

Had a dream i could turn back time had to stop to rewind my memory

had a vision of the ruby sky we were riding high

on our own pink elephant

another day in this fucked up life

another struggle just to get through nine to five maybe it was only ego talking but i always thought we were innocent

How are you

Had the answers on my fingertips til i lost it in the wind like a friend i'll never find deep in the belly is a love so thick and i thought i had it but it make me sick now i'm imagining the fields so green but i would settle for the truth in anything where i'm floating i can't feel my skin

but i might get home

i might get back again

How are you

but i might get home
How are you
