A child to a boy

From a boy to a man

Pride growing stronger

Reaching his victories

He speaks no lies

He fights his cause

He judges not the scavengers

That persecute humanity

Fate does call

And the sickness falls

Lights of life dim down

Fear like an alien comes to view

But with words like the mountains

I'll die like a soldier in your arms

My will enduring till the pain is gone

Then he looked into his lover's eyes and he cried

In the name of love

Still my bleeding heart

For the love of God

Still my bleeding heart

His chin he held high

And the courage in his voice
Was like the burning of the sun
But like the breath of an angel
How could this be
I had to scream
Why this innocent young boy
Must suffer so helplessly
But who am I
To challenge God
In the ways of the world
Remain divine mystery
I crumble down
On my hands and knees
While his words fill the air
As he looks into his destiny
I'll die like a soldier in your arms
I will be brave so you can be strong
And then he looked into his lover's eyes and he cried
In the name of love
Still my bleeding heart
For the love of God
Still my bleeding heart
And he died like a soldier in his lover's arms
Brave as a hero in a blood red war
And his final words as he reached for the stars

In the name of love

Still my bleeding heart

Be well my love

Still my bleeding heart
