Open up your eyes so you can see Everything's for free Girls with long blond hair One kiss and you'll be there

The sunset in her eyes Loves to tell you lies But you will never know Lean back and let it flow

She makes you think This night will last forever

She makes you shine So bright and fine She makes you fly away so high High that she would so anything

Though you had a ball, you might feel pain Pride will mess your brain You could limb out of here But that will get you nowhere

Close your eyes and you will see Second ride ain't free The Cathouse always wins You slowly sliding in

She makes you think This night will last forever

She makes you shine So bright and fine She makes you fly away so high High that she would so anything
