Save Your Own

Tell me again that you don't know when you landed
On the rock bottom of the wrong path
Now every mistake that you just can't shake is standing
Between you and the way back
But you don't think you can face 'em
So you run away
No, you don't think you can face 'em
You just run away

Faster than your angels can fly
To catch ya
As you tumble through the broken sky
That shattered beneath your feet
When you danced with the devil
Now you crawl with your soul
Like you can save your own

Now every lie that you justify falls down
Into a pile at your feet
So you kick it around until you have found the reason
The addiction that leaves you incomplete
But you're too afraid to change
You just run away (chorus)

But you don't think you can face 'em
So you run away
Yeah, it's more than you can take
So you run away
And you're too afraid to change
You just run away (chorus)

No, you can't save your own
No, you can't save your own
