Oh, the blues of it all, the weary, dreary
Tears start to fall, there, there now
Take a deep breath and sigh and dry your eyes

Don't worry, we've all been there
We've all had that feeling
Don't fight it, it's all right it --
It's all in being a human being
How can we become encouraged
If we never first felt despair
It's okay to be there

Oh, the blues of it all, the weary, dreary
Tears start to fall, there, there now
Take a deep breath and sigh and dry your eyes

Don't hurry, just take your time
And feel the touch of sadness
Don't fight it, it's all right it --
It's not a sign of madness
And when you've reached the heart of it
Look outward from where you are
You've come so very far

Oh, the blues of it all, the weary, dreary
Tears start to fall, there, there now
Take a deep breath and sigh and dry your eyes

And when you're ready for renewal
Let the people who are dearest be the tool
And when you're ready for revival
Let your self-esteem's survival be the rule

Oh, the blues of it all, the weary, dreary
Tears start to fall, there, there now
Take a deep breath and sigh and dry your eyes
