I never knew a boy so strange as he
He had an aura about him
It was as if he held the only key
Can't stand being without him

The intrigue, the fascination
The big league imagination
I need to know him
I need to show him
I need to know him

He had more secrets than he'd share with me
I never wanted to doubt him
All his mysterious intensity
Can't stand being without him

The intrigue, the fascination
The big league imagination
I need to know him
I need to show him
I need to know him

Deep in my dreams
Sleep unbinds him

I never will forget how he appeared
As suddenly as a south wind
And just as suddenly he disappeared
Can't stand being without him

The intrigue, the fascination
The big league imagination
I need to know him
I need to show him
I need to know him
