Stars and stripes and uniforms, the helmet that
I wear is made of methadon
The arms that I use are made of testosterone
The fight we fight we have already won

Stars and stripes and uniforms, the helmet that
I wear is made of methadon
The arms that I use are made of testosterone
The fight we fight we have already won

The troops in my brain, billions of soldiers and knights from north to south, from east to west the dope is on top so smooth and bright
We are kings behind the white manifest
Ip in smoke and down in sand High as weirdos and blood from ourselves fighting for our existence

Stars and stripes and uniforms, the helmet that
I wear is made of methadon
The arms that I use are made of testosterone
The fight we fight we have already won

The arms that I use are made of testosterone
The fight we fight we have already won

The third and final war, upcoming at midnight
Rumors and heat in the air, I live in Disneyland So look how I care, thats not my earth I am becoming queer count from 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8

Enter a shuttle and fly to the moon

Stars and stripes and uniforms, the helmet that
I wear is made of methadon
The arms that I use are made of testosterone
The fight we fight we have already won

Stars and stripes and uniforms, the helmet that
I wear is made of methadon
The arms that I use are made of testosteron
The fight we fight we have already won
