

Storyteller, The

"A Test of Endurance And Strength"

Visit "A Test of Endurance And Strength" on MotoLyrics.com

We travel trough wasteland, it's hard but we still carry on
The Landscape is changing as we travel through a land
that's so dark
It's two roads ahead, which path do we take?
No way of knowing which one one is the safe
No sounds in the air, this place seems so weird Behind every shadow there's someone that watches our way

As we bravely carry on
Into a forest so deep and so dark
Who knows what lies ahead?
It's so strange but it feels like the forest is alive
There's somekind of magic that floats in the air
The Forest keeps whispering "beware,
Before you lies death and despair"

Suddenly from the dark
A borde of trolls attacks
Waving with their sharpened swords
There's no turning back
Screams in the night
Bodies on the ground
Their leader comes at me
So I slay him with my steel

And when the light came with the morning sun
We realized this time we did survive

Trough I know that dangers lies ahead of me
Still we must proceed
Wherever faith is leading me
That's where I'll always be

Yes I know that dangers lies ahead of me
But still we must proceed
Wherever faith is leading me
Then that's where I must go

