Far in the forest we all stay together
To rest by the fire cause the nightfall has come
While the stars are shining from the sky far above us
We all fall asleep from the tone of our bard

Oh, while he's playing his song
He sings about the druids and the powers they hold

He sings of the great men who lived long before us
Warriors with knowledge in the riddle of steel
Stories about dragons and powerful sorcereres
Adventures we seek, adventures we know

Oh, our journey's so long
But we all know this is where we belong

Through rain and through storms
Through darkness and cold
Like a wind our faith moves us on
Through rain and through storms
Through darkness and cold
Like a wind our faith moves us on

Oh, our journey's so long
But we all know this is where we belong

Through rain and through storms
Through darkness and cold
Like a wind our faith moves us on

Through rain and through storms
Through darkness and cold
Like a wind our faith moves us on
