

Storyteller, The "Loss Of A Friend"

Visit "Loss Of A Friend" on MotoLyrics.com

After a long and fearsome night the sun finally rose again to start another day. Did they all make it? Was anyone hurt? Siam started searching the area in hope to find all of his friends, and after a while all of them were found except his old friend Darek. Getting more and more frustrated, Siam and his friends searched the area again and again hoping to find Darek, and when they finally found him it seemed like all faith of the travelers were gone. Darek had been struck by a battleaxe which ended his life in a very cruel way. When the warlord came for Kira, Darek came for her rescue and together they killed the warlord. Unfortunately a troll was waiting behind a tree and before Kira could do anything the troll had put his axe in Darek. With the last of his strength he turned around and pushed his sword into the skull of the troll, and then fell to the ground never to get up again.

So now it was time to say farewell. Together they lighted the fire that would take Darek to the other side, to the land of the warriors. And then Siam said a few words to honour his friend.

When I started on this quest I had you by my side And when you traveled by my side I had no fear at all But now when you have left this world I feel I'm out of strength
I feel that something's missing me, I've lost my dearest friend

But hear my words I promise thee, as you walk to the other side

Your bravery has not been in vain, I promise you my friend

So hear these words I say to thee
I know the story ends for you and me
But though I know we'll meet again someday
You know I understand, but I can't stand the pain

So hear these words I say to thee
I know the story ends for you and me
But though I know we'll meet again someday
You know I understand, but I can't stand the pain

So make this journey without me, take your place among the gods
I try to stay strong and believe in the words, of eternity

I hope the fire treats you good, and the smoke will show you home.
I try not to cry, I try in your honor, I'll be strong for thee

But hear my words I promise thee as you walk to the other side
Your bravery has not been in vain, I promise you my friend

Visit Storyteller, The page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.