now she's thinking of the red soil and those mango trees well in her mind she's still splashing round down on cable beach and her eyes are as rich and as far away as the sunset there but she's not taking in a word i say so i might as well be talking to my self take it in, take it all in now is the time that will not come again

take it in take it all in
this is the day and its here for the living so we stepped out side into this melbourne weather and with a shock it brings her back to where she is well now we've made this place our home surrounded by unknown we're gonna stick it out until it comes together

take it in take it all in

we're only living for a day or some days gone by you'll take it in each moment never notice what you had until it passed you by, passed you by so take it in, take it all in

take it in take it all in

take it all in
take it in yeah yeah (take it all in) take it all in (this is the day that is here for the living)
