My time went so quickly, I went lickety-splickly out to my old '55

Pulled away slowly, feeling so holy, God knows, I was feeling alive.

And now the sun's coming up, I'm riding with Lady
Luck, freeway cars and trucks,
Stars beginning to fade, and I lead the parade
Just a-wishing I'd stayed a little longer,
Oh, Lord, that the feeling's getting stronger.

Now six in the morning, gave me no warning; I had to be on my way.

Lights passing and trucks a flashing,
I'm on my way home from your place.

And now the sun's coming up, I'm riding with Lady
Luck, freeway cars and trucks.
