

Submarines, The "Epic Air Voyage"

Visit "Epic Air Voyage" on MotoLyrics.com

Wasting time of your own volition who said life is about ambition you say times are getting hard you can't finish anything you start where else would you go if you walked away gave up the things that you have today you can change your mind, but your heart's the same you get nowhere even faster on another plane

But we feel the long flight but it's the sky, not us, that's falling now

We take off with nothing more to say we left a vapor trail of words and watch them fade now up here, so beautiful it sounds but the navigator took his parachute and headed for the ground

We feel the long flight
but it's the sky, not us, that's falling now

Stalled out but all right nothing between heaven and earth can stop us now

When will you know just who you are?
we'll never know exactly where we'll go and you know just who you are
we'll never know exactly where we'll go

We feel the long flight
but it's the sky, not us, that's falling now stalled out but we're all right nothing between heaven and earth can stop us now

You know just who you are
we'll never know exactly where we'll go
and you know just who you are
we'll never know exactly where we'll go

