Autumn has overcome slowly and cumbersome

but a clear head and a fresh start should be enough to get me on my feet again and you'll say it'll be alright you'll cast it away tonight now turn your headlights down and try not to think, 'cause future is now

I've waited for your summer chill 'till i was freezing cold over and over and over again

But what am I waiting for?

I've waited for you, blissful dream and dreamt it all away head over heels
on my knees,
on the run and what am I waiting for?
