This is a war, forget what you came here for, and save yourself, you have no one to depend on...
Please let the sun go down once more, the gentle breeze, the falling leaves, while they bomb our houses, and steal our children, from under our crooked noses, I feel crippled and hopeless, I feel weak and selfish, why can't i pick up my own two feet and run away, run, run, run away...
I don't have the will to go on, i wanna feel the sun burn through me, i wanna meet your god...
I mist have spoken out loud, cause i seem to have lost my voice again, the candle's burnt out, I burnt that mother fucker at both ends...
This is a war, forget what you came here for, and save yourself , you have no one to depend on...
I don't have the will to go on, i wanna feel the sun burn through me, I wanna meet your saviour, and i wanna meet your god, and bleed in the new light...
Blood, burning inside, nothing remains, gone, nothing will remain the same when you're gone.
