until the morning come and i have run to far and i just can't let you win this time now knowing this will be my last goodbye when i see you on the other side i'm waiting simple as it seems to be nothing ever sets you free when you're living with this inability(again) just to make amends
all my dreams still have dead ends you can't rely on faith no not again
seems we're always speaking now on higher ground with just a whisper underneath this silence showing this will be my last escape
when you're living with this insecurity(again)
just to make amends
we'll never be the same
no not again
no never again september falls into november we'll never be the same again
