once again i think society's corrupt and this world is turning to shit
it seems that everyone, all they ever want to do is fit in can't they see that something wrong? i wonder if they even notice once again i think my best friend is moronic and he doesn't even understand why doesn't he just open up his eyes and try to be a real friend

won't let this world drag me down i know i've been pushed around by the people who think they control and of course they've yet to show me how they consider this right and the people in the high position who rule the world with their decisions now i hope they see what they've done
