Thousands of miles spent
Chasing down your heart
It wasn't good enough
And you knew it from the start
All I can say is that you showed me how to live
But living a lie is the reason my heart wasn't born to give
But I just wanna know

So how can you say those words to me
And act like I don't mean anything
I gave you my heart and everything
But you throw it away so easily

You had a plan
You knew what you wanted all along
But I still believed you and inside I know I was wrong
Sit there and smile and laugh
His new arms all over yours
But sooner or later you'll be kicking down my door
And I won't let you in

So how can you say those words to me
And act like I don't mean anything
I gave you my heart and everything
But you threw it away so easily

I made the mistake of wondering
And the damage and cause I'm suffering
I wish I could change so many things
But all I can do is let it be

Let it be

So how can you say those words to me
And act like I don't mean anything
I gave you my heart and everything
But you threw it away so easily

I made the mistake of wondering
And the damage and cause I'm suffering

I wish I could change so many things
But all I can do is let it be
