Chorus:

All princes start as frogs, and all gentlemen as dogs
Just wait till its plain to see What we're growing up to be cause some frogs will still be frogs Some dogs will still be dogs but some boys can become men
Just don't kiss us till then

You hate men is what you say and I understand how you feel that way
All girls dream of a fairy tale
But what you've got's like a used car sales man Trying to conceal what's wrong behind a smile and a song
And I'm not saying that boys are not like that
But I think you should know
That some of us will grow Because. . .

Chorus

You found him is what you say
And we all want you to feel that way
The frog you've got is cute enough to kiss
And maybe frogs seen like that's all there is
But just because you haven't found your prince yet Doesn't mean you're not still a princess What if your prince comes riding in While your kissing a frog, what's he gonna think then
So look into his eyes
Are you a princess or a fly
