

Superchick, The "Suddenly"

Visit "Suddenly" on MotoLyrics.com

She feels lost in her life
Treading water just to keep from slipping under And she wonders if she's where she's supposed to be Tired of trying to do it right
Her dreams are just too far away to see how steps she's making
Might be taking her to who she'll be

Chorus:

And suddenly it isn't what it used to be
And after all this time it worked out just fine
And suddenly I am where I'm supposed to be
And after all the tears I was supposed to be here

She feels locked in her own life Scared of what she might lose if she moves away from who she was
And she's afraid of being free
There's a way she knows is right
She can't feel the things she knows
And so each step she's taking is a step of faith toward who she'll be

Chorus

And here where the night is darkest black
She feels the fear and the light is farthest back And through her tears she can't see the dawn is coming Skies will clear and the light will find her where she's always been.

Chorus

Visit Superchick, The page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.