You had a bad day,
So you go in your yard.
You see a family walking,
With their dog.
The little girls laughing,
The dad's telling a joke.
And all I wish,
Is for that to be me.
And i said

How come life just isn't fair?
How come there's all these troubles we have to share?
How come nothing is ever right?
How come to get what we want
we have to put up one big fight?
How come all is going wrong?
Why do I cheer myself up
by singing one heck of a sad song.
They all say
Life isn't fair
take it like a man
Yet it's my turn to make a plan!

So I run in the house,
Grab a pen and a paper.
I write it all down,
It's all worked out.
My friends waiting for me.
Since I asked her to meet
And it's her i greet.
and i asked her

How come life just isn't fair?
How come there's all these troubles we have to share?
How come nothing is ever right?
How come to get what we want
we have to put up one big fight?
How come all is going wrong?
Why do I cheer myself up
by singing one heck of a sad song.
They all say

Life isn't fair
take it like a man
now it's our turn to make a plan!

So we run to the street
And we scream and shout
And we tell the whole world to watch out.
And a crowd gathers around us.
Now it's my chance.
So i say.

Trust me life will turn out fair
Peace and love will spread out everywhere.
Everything will be all right.
But we have to learn to stop this fight
Nothings ever going to be wrong and you'll all know where you belong!
They stopped saying
Life isn't fair
and take it like a man Cause now they're listening to my plan

Cause now they know they all know
Cause now they all know
Who i am.
