Can't hear you now
You've lost your touch
You're not the same person in front of me
So cover up
Your skin and bones
What are you trying so hard not to be?

Everything that you wrote I already read, plagiarized Everything that you said was so rehearsed, I know your lines

The damage is done, I saw for myself
If I didn't know any better, I'd swear you were someone else
The damage is done, I saw for myself
If I didn't know any better, I'd swear you were someone
else

Time's running out
You've been discovered, it's your swan song
So clear the air
And come outside
You've been faking sick for so long

And all of the pills you take won't fix a single thing
And you didn't think what goes around would come crawling back to me

You've been faking sick for so long
Can't hear you now, You've lost your touch
