i'm back now to save the day me and my big army pretend back to see those lovely blues, like before you might as well turn away because you won't like it

there's too much time

and i'm on my own

there's just too much time

can we be something different?

can we be something that you want?

you don't think that i'm so cool i've got this photo here of you and you don't want to be here now, like before you might as well lose the key because you won't like it

this could be clever
