you're fragile like an eggshell that i've been kicking in.
i'll piece you back together:
if you will let me in.
so sorry for what i've done,
but believe i've made amends.
is there a corner in your heart
where i can make a bed?

i still believe in you.
i still believe in you.

if you gave me one drop
from your golden cup,
i would drink it to contentment
cus i don't need that much.
sometimes you must survive
on just the air you breathe.
sometimes there is no truth,
but still you do believe.

i still believe in you.
i still believe in you.

this is my profession
of faith in you, my dear.
i still believe in you.
i still believe in you.
oh darling, you gave up.

i still believe in you.
i still believe in you.
i still believe in you.
