A fortune teller told me how glowing lights can take me away.

Mindful and controlling, abduction leads to surgery.

Some enjoy the ride and some commit to suicide.

They're using chemicals to alter animals and their biology.

They're using animals to gain a better known technology.

Their skin is soft and white and sensitive to light.

Deep inside as parts are realigned, anesthetic soothes your mind.

I don't look back on anything that will feed me anxiety.

I don't look back on anything soft and glittering.

Nights alive and empty starts are your disguise.
