"One Moment Caught In Time"

Soaking my head once again to drown my fears until you said, ("Down the line but never crossed") These silly games that we pretend Another ocean made of friends

The harder we want to fall the long we'll keep this going I want, but can't see at all our truth will just keep showing

The mirror
on the wall
me standing
in front of it and you're there
behind me
so softly
whispering this and then we could see how great face to face could be
it could be.....

One moment caught in time
is not enough to hold you here with me in my mind
and in my life
