every now and then i get like this and it isn't hard to see but the old man in the kitchen i think he's part of me don't say nothing bout the old house cos i burned it to the ground and when the darkness comes i lie awake playing lost and found
all at once
i break my silence
there's no more hiding
all he wants
is to show us how he feels they're all liars in the back room watch them all go down they can tell you what you want to hear but they will never stick around so don't say nothing about the old house

i'll lie and wait

still playing lost and found

when he comes around

do not tell him nothing do not make a sound cos if he know's we're there he might tear his heart out and beat us to death with it i was too young to understand
