Come back home
for another year
and find yourself in the thick of it
for another year
I always thought that you could handle this and you know your heart enough and you'll find you're strong enough and you'll feel you're strong enough
and ask yourself if you can handle this you say my name before you disappear I always though that you could handle this in your life
you can talk about it
oh in your life
you can't live without can't live without
