If I had known all these roads had led to you I would of crashed this car now I'm leaving you with all this sorrow and send me your very best the world does not revolve around your heart you said that you would die for me I know it's hard but try the best you can

I'm past the point of telling you I'm sorry and telling you things will be alright and I'm past the point of giving you my heart back a segway to another sleepless night you said you lie awake and cry yourself to sleep while lying in my bed so I'm asking one question and I'll try to make it brief do you care if I'm alive or you're dead you said you would die for me just wait a while I'm sure you'll get your chance

I'm past the point of telling you I'm sorry

the wait is over, say good bye to what you had and I'll miss you it's all those quiet things that no one talks about it's over, it's over it's so over

always and forever, I'll miss you more than ever

I'm past the point of telling you I'm sorry
