Follow me I'll show you what i see some say were waste of space but i think we've found our place they're so concerned about the way we live struggle to make a buck they point the finger at us a lot has changed today there is no shame whose gonna speak the truth as television lies to you and those of us who knows what's going on hear you generalize we try to rationalize don't fucking criticize us cause when the lights are low in your head that's when we'll shine on you and when you believe things can't get worse that when we'll see you through but we wont be there to use you burned your proof if you can't speak easy than your going to fall right through remember me when nobody hears you scream they'll look you in the ey but wont care if you die cause were living in such a fucking mess we trash the ones we and say (fuck all the rest) it's gonna make you sick cause when the lights are low in your head that's when we'll shine on you and when you believe things can't get worse don't you worry about where your going in the end were going to find out a better way I'll remain in the shadows as you wither in the spotlight i can see the poison in your blood now your exposed and it's not a surprise that there is nothing beneath the veil follow me I'll show you what i see follow me follow me we'll find a better way follow me
