I used to wonder how everybody other than me found someone to love.
They must have been given a stroke of a little bit of luck.
But deep in my heart was a place and a part
That only the right one could fill.
Well
my prayers must have all gone through
'Cause somebody up there sent me you.
And now I've found my little bit of heaven -
I'm feeling like an angel.
'Cause now I've found my little bit of heaven -
I'm feeling more than able
To give you all the secrets nobody ever knew
And put the past behind me forget about what I have been through
'Cause now I've found my little bit of heaven in you.
Now every day just shows another way
How a little bit of love can grow
the ups and downs
Through the sunshine and rain

and

And the highs and the lows.

But I'll just keep believing in the love I've been feeling

And take it one day at a time

'Cause my prayers have all come true

And somebody up there sent me you.

And now I've found my little bit of heaven - . . .

And now I've found my little bit of heaven - . . .

Now that I've found my little bit of heaven -

I'm feeling like an angel.

Now that I've found my little bit of heaven -

I'm feeling more than able.

Now that I've found my little bit of heaven -

I'm feeling like an angel.

Now that I've found my little bit of heaven -

I'm feeling more than able
