He's been sitting by the phone since she left but it's time for work and he just can't be late so he grabs his old guitar and plays a couple bars on the machine and this is what he sings

It doesn't matter what you've done, I still love you it doesn't matter where you've been, you can still come home
and honey if it's you, we've got a lot of making up to do and I can't hug you on the phone, so hurry home well the message light was blinking when he got back it was an old friend cause he just heard the news he says Man I hope you find her if I see her I'll remind her that her dad is worried and wants her to know

home

well the days dragged by without a word from her and it looked like she might know I'd be coming back people said Man don't you think it's time to take that old message off he said no, you never know when she might call she was just outside a bar in New York City her so-called friends had left her all alone she was scared he wouldn't want her but she dialed up that old number and let it ring and then she heard him sing

home

he walked in just in time to hear her say that I'm on my way
