Old time preacher in a small town church bows his head to pray
Early morning echoes off the empty walls in that sacred place
In a few short hours this room will be filled up with desperate souls
And he's begging God to tell him what they need to know
And a still small voice says

Tell them that I love them, that I died to set them free
Tell them there's an answer for everything they need Tell them there's forgiveness and there's hope in suffering
The truth never gets old so say it again and again
Tell them that I love them
Tell them

He thinks about Charlie who just said goodbye to his bride of fifty years Nathan and Sadie still praying for a baby through empty arms and tears
This is where they're running to find a little peace inside their pain
And he's pleading with the Savior for the words to say When a still small voice says

Tell them that I love them, that I died to set them free
Tell them there's an answer for everything they need Tell them there's forgiveness and there's hope in
suffering
The truth never gets old so say it again and again
Tell them that I love them

Tell them Grace is still amazing
There is power in the blood
And the old rugged cross is still enough
Is still enough

Tell them that I love them, that I died to set them free
Tell them I'm the answer for everything they need

Tell them there's forgiveness and there's hope in
suffering
The truth never gets old so say it again and again
Tell them that I love them, oh yeah
Just tell them that I love them

Old time preacher in a small town church bows his
head to pray
