You're at your best when you're not trying.
You're trying harder than you think.
I'm not really here for the party.
I can't let go of my drink.

So I let go of myself - because I know that you'll notice.
But at the bottom of a bottle it can only get lonely.

I know you love me, and I love the way you don't let me know.

You're always looking for answers, though you've heard them all before.
And the million dollar question, only leads you to a million more.
So you stop making sense and make fun of my flaws.
But when you're fooling around, it ain't foolish at all.

I've told you that I love you too many times.
But if you need me, like I need you, I'll say it all night.
I've told you that I love you too many times.
But if you need me, like I need you, I'll say it all night.
So if you need me, like I need you, c'mon, and say it all night.
