These all look to you
For you to bring them food
When their season's due
When their season's due

When you give it up to them
They gather and shout amen
You open up your hands
You open up your hands

You hide your face from them
Then you take their breath away
It's then they are dismayed
It's then they are dismayed

And they die
Return to the dust
And they die
Return to the dust
And they die, they die
And they die, they die
Return to the dust
