Hold your laughter
but cue the applause what were you after what was your cause you talk to yourself when you needed a friend ten thousand letters and nothing to send

But everything you said to me was too hard to take
everything you said to me
was too hard to take

Endless horizon
down to the shore
And as the sun was rising for it's daily chore no one could see what you didn't want to say no one believed you would ever go away

was too hard to take
You might sleep forever
in the bed that you make

You might keep it together but it'll always seem fake

was too hard to take
