Sometimes it feels like I can't find the answers.
Sometimes it looks like they've made up my mind.
I'm holding out for a song I can sing to.
But I ended up getting stuck on a line.

You grabbed my hand and you showed me the ocean.
Told me the waves don't begin on the shore.
You took me deeper and under the water.
So when you'll surface you'll see that there's more.

These are the oceans
so why do you defend.
All of the motions
that you create to bend.
These are the oceans
where everything begins.

This is a curtain for dreams with no ending.
One little pinhole when darkness sets in.
This is the button with red tape around it.
To open doors only you can go in.

Oh where do I go to find out the answers?
Oh where do I go to make up my mind?
This city's built out of ruins and ashes.
To places I never knew I could find.

These are the oceans
so why do you defend.
All of the motions
that you create to bend.
These are the oceans
where everything begins.
These are the oceans
where everything begins.

These are the oceans
so why do you defend.
All of the motions
that you create to bend.
