It always seems so hard to tell me the truth,
I'm sick of standing here, listening to your excuse,
At least you could try when you tell me those lies,
Another day, another lie, another reason why,

You make the signs too easy to tell,
And I can tell you're doing someone else,
What good is hope now?
When our relationship is breaking down,

So just get out and leave
Cause deep down you'll always deceive,
I'm trying to escape the lies
Another day, another lie, and you wonder why,

With every minute I waste with your lies,
The clearer I see through your disguise,
The more, the more you try to hide,
Another day, another lie! ! ! !

But there's too much to get through,
I know, you'll always be you,
Deep down I wish that you could stay,
But you're breaking my heart, more everyday,

Ever since I was young,
I've been searching for that perfect someone,
I thought that person was you,
But you were too good to be true,
