we should've seen it coming but i didn't want to and now we are here at the end of something good and i'm wondering where we missed and wondering how it came to this but we did and it did and it's hard to admit that it's over
it's over

but where do we go from here and how will we know what not to fear everything's so unclear now that we know it's over cause the grass is always greener ain't it funny how it goes i suppose in the end we'll be friends like you say we should so i'm closing up this chapter of this book inside my head but i never forget cause my only regret is it's over it's over

and how will we know what not to fear
now that we know

here i am and there you are you stand so close but feel so far away from me but now i see there's no more room for you and me it's taking time it's sinking in i played the game
i didn't win
and so we go

it's over it's over
it's over it's over
it's over it's over it's over it's done
