Jonny left his lips on my window last night
Didn't want him to go but I didn't want to fight
When he said he needed space I said love that's all right
This is bigger than now. This is us. This is life

Living with the moon up there way up high
Swim in the safety of her silver night light
Dream of the future & know it's contrived
Cos Jonny left his lips on my window last night

Now I am scaling this fish of a city
Look at the ugly & see it so pretty
Perplexed by restriction & freedom of time
Cos Jonny left only his sweet lips behind

Jonny left his lips on my window last night
But the rain has come down & made everything right
My love's printed lips have been washed out of sight
Left is the shadow of love & insight
