Tell me what is the deal between you and me?
I wanna hear it, is it so hard to get over me and leave?

You're still saying that you're a part of my life and that won't change 'til
the day you die
Baby, you're right but the tables have turned Now the blessing has turned into a curse

You put the words into my mouth
You think that you're special and it makes you proud We can't get along but at least we can try to go on with our lives without hurting each other

Release me, I never asked for the leading role in your scheme
'Cos baby, you're making friends for yourself and enemies for me

You're still saying that you're a part of my life and that
won't change 'til
Baby, you're right but the tables have turned

You put the words into my mouth
You think that you're special and it makes you proud
We can't get along but at least we can try to go on with our lives without hurting each other
You put the words into my mouth
You think that you're special and it makes you proud
We can't get along but at least we can try to go on with
our lives without
hurting each other

I never knew that a beautiful smile could turn into a grin in a blink of an eye
It's not even the case of your word against mine when you won't let me speak my mind

You put the words into my mouth
You think that you're special and it makes you proud
We can't get along but at least we can try to go on with
our lives without
hurting each other
You put the words into my mouth
You think that you're special and it makes you proud
We can't get along but at least we can try to go on with
our lives without
hurting each other
