so now it's over just walk away to your life I promise to call you almost every night with all this ending, and so much more to come I'm rearranging all my pictures of you count the hours I know now I know it's not the same People surround me and I don't know their names until I see your face lessons to learn from all these rights turn wrong broken pictures hanging up the phone
I think that I could drown right here right now in your eyes
I can't feel my lungs when you are near realize it's over you're leaving
it's alright.
it's alright.
