"The Distance Traveled"

I have always been in the confines of your heart
Shackled to the bloody walls as germs pick me apart
Few will understand less will even know
I've traveled the distance
The voices will never leave me alone
They won't leave me alone

Schizophrenic feel the panic living like a crisis
Faded eyes come alive now you fucking like this
I don't need it
I can't feed it
I wouldn't if I could

I know there's ones just like me
Alone in the world lost at sea
Living in your heart we're you're disease

And that's fine, over taken
I'm just fine, so mistaken
We're all fine, I still need you
That's fine

Some of us will say
Can't take another day
But we all got to fight
Some of us reside
In hearts and alibis
But we all got answers to find
Find myself under that wait of the world

Ripped apart a broken start playing on a silver screen
Heavy mind in quick decline burning like kerosene
It's a confused mind I can't escape mine
I wouldn't if I could
I know the story all too well
A fairy-tale that leads to hell
Living in your heart we're you're disease

And that's fine, always waiting
I'm just fine, never taking
We're all fine, I just want to go
That's fine

Some of us will say
Can't take another day
But we all got to fight
Some of us reside
In hearts and alibis
But we all got answers to find
Find myself under the wait of the world

I hate crawling forward
On my hands and knees
Freed myself from your words
I am your disease, your disease

Some of us will say
We always walk away
But we all got to fight
Some of us reside in hearts and alibis
But we all got answers to find
Find myself under the weight of the world

Some of us will stay,
Some will walk away
We all got answers to find
Find myself under the weight of the world

And that's fine, I'm fine, that's fine
I've been crawling forward
I've been crawling forward
Crawling
