I wear these old shoes with the holes in
To remind me of the million Miles that I have walked beside you Good and bad times we have been through
You know the car you drive Keeps breaking down it never starts
But it reminds me of you and me in the back seat Driving it home and now I'm all alone

What do you do, what do you do when everything is broken
What do you say, what do you say when no words fit
the moment
Cuz you're not here and even if you were all I could say is What do I do, what do I do we're broken but I can't throw us away

Looking out the window
With the scratches on it at the sun
The world looks different when you're looking Through a lens like a Picasso
The sky is bitter twisted just like you and me I miss it You snap it, bend it, burn it Then you find that you can't fix it Fall back on whatever still remains

What do you do, what do you do when everything is
broken
What do you say, what do you say when no words fit
the moment
Cuz you're not here and even if you were all I could say
is
What do I do, what do I do we're broken but I can't
throw us away

Breaking you in, breaking your heart
I was taking it all and I tore you apart Breaking me in, breaking my heart
And the damage was done But I took what you got We were breakin' it, smashin' it,

Takin' it, lovin' it, hatin' it Drivin' it home and now I'm all now I'm all alone
