the sun is shining brighter the time has finally come it seems insane for me to go on I've only just begun

the image flicker faster the image rip and bend and then I looked up at the sky I knew this was the end

but when that song begins to play
I just can't bear to look away
I hear it now
so tell me what it feels like you tell me dearest one she turns around and takes her shades off
and says

it's like staring at the sun well an accident in progress the smell of burning hair I told her twice to take it easy but she just didn't care

but when that song begins to play
I just can't bear to look away

and says

I just can't bear to look away don't you feel it now

and says

like staring at the sun
like staring at the sun
